Sir:

In a Statement of Reasons For Allowance issued in connection with the above-identified U.S. patent application, the Examiner indicated that certain novelty of the Applicant's invention lies in the fact that the biasing element does not require a track and that any combination of Geisler in view of Nickerson would a track along the front wall in order for the biasing element to function. Based on the claim language, it is submitted that this statement could be misleading. Instead, the Applicant submits that record is
